We have come across a couple of interesting articles on how nonprofits are using social media to get out their message and connect their community.

Tweeting for a Better World:

Why I love Pinterest and Nonprofits Should Too:

Do you have any suggestions for how others in the Community Action Network can jump into social media? What social media platforms have you found effective? What do you think lends itself to social media?

Isn't social media just perfect? It has already helped in connecting to people long lost and now I find it one of the finest platforms for promoting and advertising a business. With the help of seo consulting Los Angeles, I am going to start promoting my business for more website traffic and popularity.
